KING AND PRINCE OF PORTUGAL KILLED

Regicides Slay the Portuguese Ruler and His Son as They Drive in Open Carriage From Railroad Station

ON THEIR RETURN TO LISBON

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—All Portugal is overwhelmed at the killing of the king and the crown prince. Though torn by internal dissensions the past few months, terrorized by acts of crime and bloodshed, uprisings in the streets, outrages with knife and bomb, and always fearful lest these signs of revolution would culminate in some dreadful outbreak of passion, Portugal was not prepared for the blow that fell when King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz were shot to death in a public place where thousands had gathered to greet their homecoming.

All night Queen Amelie, in the royal palace, sat between the biers where rested the bodies of her husband and her son, prostrated with grief. Troops guarded the palace; a squadron of cavalry surrounded the house in which whose rays were uninterrupted by clouds, was almost setting at the moment the royal family arrived. Among those in the throngs without were large numbers of the working classes, who, having completed their labors for the week, were sauntering through the streets chattering and laughing and ready to welcome the returning king as an incident offering contrast to the monotony of every day existence. Others, enthusiastic members of, and such sympathizers with, various political factions, and friends of political leaders now under arrest, also had assembled there to see the king, who came back to Lisbon at the end of a day which was marked by the sternest and repressive measures. It was because of the beautiful weather that an open carriage was in waiting for the royal family and when they took their places they were greeted with some lifting of hats, but mostly in silence. Then as the carriage sharply turned into the Rua do Arsenal there was a cracking of guns and a shower of bullets tore their way into the bodies of the king and crown prince and the little prince, who proved an easy target. The assassins, numbering six in all, boldly ran up to the side of the carriage and poured in a hail of lead before the stupefied escort could intervene. The king and crown prince, half rising, fell back into the cushions, the blood gushing from their wounds. The coachman brought his whip across the flanks of his horses and with a bound they dashed away, disappearing into the arsenal quadrangle. The panic-stricken people, who had fled on all sides, could see the queen leaning over the crown prince and her younger son, who also was bleeding from wounds made by the assassins' bullets.

Killed by a Veritable Fusillade.

How many shots were fired no one can say, but it was a veritable fusillade, coming from the right side of the street. The effort of the crown prince, who was sitting opposite to the king, to rise was pitiful and without avail, for he just lifted himself sufficiently to pitch forward and fall over the prostrate body of his father. Queen Amelie, uttering a scream that could be heard by all who had not become frenzied by the attack, threw herself toward her sons, shielding their bodies with her own. She frantically struck at the murderers with a bouquet of roses which she had been carrying, but even in the face of this the men fired again and again. As he saw his father and his brother fall, Prince Manuel whipped out a revolver and discharged it at the men, but he was himself struck on the right arm by a bullet from a carbine. A footman in the carriage also was wounded, and it was stated that a bullet grazed the queen's shoulder, but did not do her harm.

Only mounted police accompanied the carriage, as the king had refused military escort. The attack came from the rear, for it was found afterward that the king had been shot in the back of the neck and it was so entirely unexpected that the murderers had employed their carbines and revolvers almost before the police knew what was going on and had turned to flee into the crowds that now, panic-stricken, had dropped back before their weapons. The guard charged upon them, pursuing them down the street and riddling three of them with bullets. Hundreds of the people joined in the pursuit and three others of the band of assassins were made prisoners.

Two of the remaining dead regicides have been identified as store clerks.

Queen and Prince Heartbroken.

The royal carriage had by this time been driven into the quadrangle and the gates of the arsenal were shut. The grief of the queen and Prince Manuel was heartbreaking. Within a few minutes the queen mother, the Dowager Queen Marie Pia, the Duke of Oporto, the king's brother, and the ministers of state assembled, all weeping bitterly.

The news of the assassination spread like wildfire and thousands of people, bewildered and terrified, poured into the streets. Soon the troops and police occupied all the prominent places and the people hurried to their homes and barricaded the doors and windows to await in fear the unknown future. The strictest measures were taken by the officers in charge of the troops to suppress the slightest sign of disorder, but their work was light. There have been no disturbances in Lisbon in the past twenty-four hours and the day passed off only in the deepest gloom, with the populace mourning on every hand.

The bodies of the king and crown prince rest in the royal palace and beside them the queen sat throughout the night, sometimes with her hand pressing the forehead of King Carlos, and sometimes stroking the face of the crown prince.

The condition of the newly proclaimed king, Manuel, is satisfactory to the physicians in attendance. His wounds are not severe and if there are no complications, of which there are no signs now, he is expected to make a speedy recovery. He carries his arm in a sling and declares that he suffers no pain.

The bodies of King Carlos and Prince Luiz have been embalmed and will lie in state according to the custom of the court. The funeral probably will be held on Feb. 10.

REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED.

No Confirmation of Report of Action at Oporto.

Madrid, Feb. 3.—El Mundo publishes a statement that a republic has been proclaimed in Oporto, Portugal, but no confirmation of this can be obtained.

Oporto, where it is reported a republic has been proclaimed, is the second city of importance in the Portuguese kingdom. It is the natural capital of Northern Portugal and is situated in the best cultivated and most densely inhabited portion of the country.

Oporto on several occasions has been the scene of fighting. The more recent trouble there occurred Jan. 31, 1891, when about 600 men of the garrison, led by Captain Leitao, revolted and were joined by the citizens of Oporto. The rebels fortified themselves in the city hall, but the building was bombarded by loyal troops and the rebels were forced to surrender, though they did not do so until fifty of them had been killed and many wounded.

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—A boy king, who henceforth will be known as Manuel II., now is the ruler of the kingdom of Portugal, and the revolution into which the instigators of the bloody tragedy had hoped to plunge the country has not yet, at least, engulfed the nation. Franco, the dictator and real commander of the country's destinies, whom the moral and physical might of all parties and powerful interests has not succeeded in destroying, remains still the triumphant leader, not only unconquered and unafraid, but retained in power by the new king, determined at all hazards and at all costs to prevent further violence and insurrection and to preserve the monarchy.

The only word of indication that universal order in Portugal had possibly been broken came from Oporto in the form of a rumor that a republic had been proclaimed there, but this was not confirmed. Lisbon, from a scene of revolutionary outbreaks, seems sincerely prostrated with grief. The streets are silent and the people, wearing emblems of mourning, pass slowly and sorrowfully, discussing the murder of the king and the crown prince.

The cowardly shooting of the king in the back calls forth words of execration upon the regicides, while the government declares that the murders will only strengthen the cause of the monarchy and ensure the fidelity of the people. The army apparently still is loyal and no organized movement of the Republicans to launch a republic is under way, so far as outward appearances go. Nevertheless, subdued excitement pervades the city, whose population still is fearful that the fearful crimes will be followed by more bloodshed, and are only the prelude to a series of national disasters.

Disclaim All Responsibility.

The Republicans disclaim responsibility for the assassinations, which they lay at the doors of the anachists, but the identification of a dead regicide as a cavalry sergeant is accepted by many officials as proof that the assassinations were the work of revolutionaries, who had successfully spread the propaganda, smuggled in arms and bombs, and who, headed by prominent Republicans, plotted to proclaim a republic a fortnight ago. It is also recalled that it was officially given out by the police that an elaborate plot had been prepared for an uprising on Jan. 31, the anniversary of the revolt at Oporto, the plot includ-

the premier, Franco, passed the night; special details of troops were drawn up before public buildings and reserves were quartered in barracks ready for a call that might come to spring to arms.

But Lisbon did not sleep. Scarcely a soul throughout the city closed eyes. An unnatural silence pervaded the place, for after the first awakening to the tragedy that had been enacted with its attendant noises and confusions, shops and cafes were closed; the doors of theaters were hastily locked, houses were barricaded and the streets were closed. No one might say where the next blow might fall, and revolution that sweeps through a city like a fire in dry places drove the people into their homes or other places where they might be secure.

The attack on the royal family, however, had the opposite effect from that most feared, and peace and quiet reigned as though no murder had been done. Premier Franco proclaimed the accession of Prince Manuel to the throne, the naval and military chiefs and the high dignitaries of state swore allegiance to the new king, and Portugal still lived under a monarchy.

Sovereign in a Happy Mood.

No more beautiful day could be imagined than that which hereafter will mark the date on which King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz met their deaths at the hands of assassins. Returning from a sojourn at the king's estate at Villa Vicosa, accompanied by the queen, the crown prince and the infant Manuel, the sovereign seemingly was in happy mood when he stepped into the carriage in waiting at the railroad station.

Thousands of spectators, gaily attired in combination with the bright decorations, set out to welcome the royal family and made an animated scene. All the surrounding streets were filled with gay, light-hearted throngs waiting to greet the king, and though guards were stationed all along the route no one had thought of the dastardly attempt which was to come. The people were allowed to circulate as freely as they pleased and for a short time so great were the crowds the driver of the carriage had difficulty in making a start.

The entire court, ministers and ladies in waiting and many army officers were in the station when the train drawing the royal family pulled in. The weather was glorious, almost like summer, with warm, soft breeze blowing in from the ocean. The sun ing the assassination of Franco during the night, a general rising at daybreak, the cutting of all wires and the seizure of the reins of government.

The assassins who are under arrest are maintaining a stolid silence. The police are pursuing an exhaustive investigation and it is declared that the arrest of high personages implicated in the plot will be made shortly.

The government has adopted most thorough measures to block the escape from Portugal of suspects.

Premier Franco has telegraphed the Spanish government, requesting that it place a guard on the frontier to prevent an exodus of Portuguese revolutionists and the coming into Portugal of Spanish revolutionists.

At a meeting of the council of state, Premier Franco and the chiefs of the Progressist and Regenerationist parties offered the king their support for a coalition ministry, which the king accepted.

The cabinet has resigned and it is understood that Admiral Ferreira de Amiral will form a coalition cabinet. This action indicates that the opponents of Premier Franco have decided temporarily to abandon their differences and unite with him in an attempt to save the monarchy.

One report is that the assassinations of King Carlos and the crown prince were executed under the orders of the Republican, Ferreira, and the intention was to assassinate the whole Portuguese royal family.

Fleet Ordered to Lisbon.

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—It is reported that the British Atlantic fleet now at Vigo has been ordered to Lisbon to watch events.

TWO PASSENGERS KILLED.

Several Others Injured in a Wreck in Michigan.

Adrian, Mich., Feb. 3.—The Detroit accommodation on the Wabash railroad was wrecked two and a half miles east of here. The entire train of seven cars, including two day coaches, parlor car, dining car, sleeper, baggage and express coaches, was tipped over in the ditch. Several passengers and some of the crew were injured.

It is now known that two passengers were killed and about thirty-four were injured. Most of the injured are reported as not being serious. A relief train is taking the injured to Detroit. Among the injured are several people from the Belasco theater, New York. The dead are:

Mrs. John Smith, Milwaukee; Mrs. Frances Barbo, Budapest, Hungary.

Lawyer Frozen to Death.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—William Brace, a member of a local law firm, was found frozen to death within fifty yards of his residence in Highland Park, a suburb. It is thought that Mr. Brace slipped on an icy sidewalk and was stunned by the fall, succumbing to the cold before he recovered consciousness.

Three Killed at a Crossing.

Peru, Ind., Feb. 3.—Alfred Kling, Mrs. Alfred Kling and the former's brother, Ora Kling, were killed at Bennett's switch while crossing the Indiana Union traction line in a closed carriage.

THAW IN AN ASYLUM

Pittsburg Millionaire Confined at Matteawan, N. Y.

EXPECTS TO BE SET FREE

Noted Prisoner Declares That His Lawyers Soon Will Obtain His Liberty—No Special Privileges Extended to Him.

Matteawan, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Harry K. Thaw has begun the routine of a simple life which the authorities at the state hospital for the criminal insane say will make his long stay in the Tombs prison in New York city seem like the height of gaiety in comparison. The new patient in the observation ward slept soundly the first night, the presence of the fifty other men in the dormitory not giving him the slightest concern. He arose in the morning at 6 o'clock and ate a hearty breakfast at the "knife and fork table."

Only fifty-four men out of the more than 700 in the institution are allowed this privilege, the others being restricted to spoons. Thaw seemed much refreshed from his sound sleep and declared he needed rest after the trying hours while the jury was out. About 500 men were in the main dining room when Thaw reached the breakfast table, and he was the center of attention. The novelty of the noted patient's presence had not worn off by dinner time and he was commended again to eat under the scrutiny of many eyes. No arrangement for specially prepared meals having yet been made for him, Thaw shared the hospital fare with all others. His dinner included roast pork, potatoes, sauerkraut, bread, butter and coffee. Thaw attended divine services in the hospital auditorium or theater. One hundred patients were present and Thaw had expressed a desire to attend.

Expects to Be Set Free Soon.

Thaw declared to one of the attendants that he probably would not be in the hospital more than one week. He said his lawyers would sue out a writ of habeas corpus in his behalf and he was sure he would be allowed his liberty as the result of a hearing in court or an inquiry before a commission.

Thaw's picture and measurements for the hospital records will be made during the early part of the week. He already has given his age to the authorities as thirty-seven years. During his stay in the observation ward prior to being assigned to some particular division or to private quarters, Thaw will be under the immediate supervision of Dr. Amos T. Baker. Dr. Baker said he would not allow Thaw to have liquor and tobacco unless his condition seemed to demand them for a time in medical moderation.

Thaw brought a large sum of money with him to the hospital, but finding he would not be allowed his custody, handed it to a newspaper man, who turned it over to his counsel. During the week provisions will be made by the family for special meals and table delicacies for Thaw, the money being placed in the hands of the authorities.

The jury in New York found Thaw not guilty of the murder of Stanford White on the ground that he was insane at the time he committed the act. Justice Dowling then committed Thaw to the asylum for the criminal insane in this city.

WORST IN MANY YEARS.

Gale That Swept New England Coast Is Raging Over Newfoundland.

Boston, Feb. 3.—The gale which swept the New England coast with a heavy fall of snow and rain, has passed northeast and is raging over Newfoundland with violence apparently undiminished. No marine disasters accompanied by loss of life have been reported, though several vessels have gone ashore.

At Dark Harbor, Me., the two-masted British schooner Abana parted her anchor chains and went on the rocks. Her crew escaped. The schooner will be a total loss.

The freight steamer Massasoit, which was blown ashore in Cutler Harbor, Me., Jan. 8, and which was floated Saturday, dragged her anchors during the gale and went aground again.

At St. John the gale is described as the worst in forty-five years. The Canadian steamer Empress of Ireland was torn from her moorings at that port, her hawsers parting, but she was quickly made secure again.

Along the Bay of Fundy coast much damage was done to wharves and small fishing boats.

FOUND DEAD IN HER ROOM.

Wisconsin Woman a Victim of Narcotic for Insomnia.

New York, Feb. 3.—A handsome woman of perhaps thirty-seven years, supposed to be Almyra Wilcox, who conducted a millinery establishment in Milwaukee, was found dead in her room at the Hotel Chelsea, where she registered last Monday. Death had occurred during the night and powder discovered in the room led the coroner to believe that an over-potion of some narcotic had proven fatal. This view was concurred in by a physician who had treated the woman for insomnia. Letters written by her told of four sleepless nights.

Miss Wilcox before going to Wisconsin lived in Rutland, Vt., and had relatives in Castleton, that state. Dr. F. H. Everett of Castleton telegraphed giving instructions as to embalming and stating that he would arrive later.

Lipton's Representative Killed.

New York, Feb. 3.—David Barrie, Sir Thomas Lipton's representative in this country when the Irish baronet raced Shamrock I. and Shamrock II. for the America's cup, was killed in the Jersey Central depot in Jersey City, slipping on the ice and falling in front of a locomotive, which crushed him. Mr. Barrie was a tea importer.

The novelty of the noted patient's presence had not worn off by dinner time and he was compelled again to eat under the scrutiny of many eyes. No arrangement for specially prepared meals having yet been made for him, Thaw shared the hospital fare with all others. His dinner included roast pork, potatoes, sauerkraut, bread, butter and coffee.

Thaw attended divine services in the hospital auditorium or theater. One hundred patients were present and Thaw had expressed a desire to attend.

Expects to Be Set Free Soon.

Thaw declared to one of the attendants that he probably would not be in the hospital more than one week. He said his lawyers would sue out a writ of habeas corpus in his behalf and he was sure he would be allowed his liberty as the result of a hearing in court or an inquiry before a commission.

Thaw's picture and measurements for the hospital records will be made during the early part of the week. He already has given his age to the authorities as thirty-seven years. During his stay in the observation ward prior to being assigned to some particular division or to private quarters, Thaw will be under the immediate supervision of Dr. Amos T. Baker. Dr. Baker said he would not allow Thaw to have liquor and tobacco unless his condition seemed to demand them for a time in medical moderation.

Thaw brought a large sum of money with him to the hospital, but finding he would not be allowed its custody, handed it to a newspaper man, who turned it over to his counsel. During the week provisions will be made by the family for special meals and table delicacies for Thaw, the money being placed in the hands of the authorities.

The jury in New York found Thaw not guilty of the murder of Stanford White on the ground that he was insane at the time he committed the act. Justice Dowling then committed Thaw to the asylum for the criminal insane in this city.

WORST IN MANY YEARS.

Gale That Swept New England Coast Is Raging Over Newfoundland.

Boston, Feb. 3.—The gale which swept the New England coast with a heavy fall of snow and rain, has passed northeast and is raging over Newfoundland with violence apparently undiminished. No marine disasters accompanied by loss of life have been reported, though several vessels have gone ashore.

At Dark Harbor, Me., the two-masted British schooner Abana parted her anchor chains and went on the rocks. Her crew escaped. The schooner will be a total loss.

The freight steamer Massasoit, which was blown ashore in Culler Harbor, Me., Jan. 8, and which was beached Saturday, dragged her anchors during the gale and went aground again.

At St. John the gale is described as the worst in forty-five years. The Canadian steamer Empress of Ireland was torn from her moorings at that port, her hawsers parting, but she was quickly made secure again.

Along the Bay of Fundy coast much damage was done to wharves and small fishing boats.

FOUND DEAD IN HER ROOM.

Wisconsin Woman a Victim of Narcotic for Insomnia.

New York, Feb. 3.—A handsome woman of perhaps thirty-seven years, supposed to be Almyra Wilcox, who conducted a millinery establishment in Milwaukee, was found dead in her room at the Hotel Chelsea, where she registered last Monday. Death had occurred during the night and powders discovered in the room led the coroner to believe that an over-potion of some narcotic had proven fatal. This view was concurred in by a physician who had treated the woman for insomnia. Letters written by her told of four sleepless nights.

Miss Wilcox before going to Wisconsin lived in Rutland, Vt., and had relatives in Castleton, that state. Dr. F. H. Everett of Castleton telegraphed giving instructions as to embalming and stating that he would arrive later.

Lipton's Representative Killed.

New York, Feb. 3.—David Barrie, Sir Thomas Lipton's representative in this country when the Irish baronet, Lord Lipton, and Shamrock II, for the America's cup, was killed in the Jersey Central depot in Jersey City, slipping on the ice and falling in front of a locomotive, which crushed him. Mr. Barrie was a tea importer.

Day of Syracuse university, discussing President Roosevelt's message, said: "If I am entirely honest and frank, I am compelled to say that much of it reads like the ravings of a disordered mind, and other portions, in which appeal is made to class prejudice and excitement, is large with the suggestion of the adroit and cunning, the shrewd, but reckless demagogue."

AUTHENTIC BIBLE CODEX.

Professor Saunders Holds Freer Manuscript Equal to Canonical Ones.

Professor H. A. Saunders of Michigan university told the Detroit Archaeological society the other day that the Freer Bible manuscript recently brought from Egypt is nothing less than a complete new codex covering two-thirds of the Bible and as authentic as any of the three codices heretofore known—namely, the Vatican, the Alexandrian and the Sinaitic. He is convinced of this because of the character of the manuscripts, says a Detroit correspondent of the New York Sun. They are a Greek transcript of some older manuscript, in which respect they are on a par with the three other recognized codices. The age of the collection Professor Saunders places at from 400 to 600 A. D.
The book does not contain the revelations of John. Dwelling on this feature, Professor Saunders made an interesting observation. The revelations of St. Peter were found not many years ago at the same place where this Freer codex was unearthed. The present codex, the professor advanced as a theory, was part of a Bible of six books which included the revelations of St. Peter instead of those of St. John and was used by a Greek church in upper Egypt and buried or lost at the time of the Moslem invasion of Egypt in 640.

Ravings of a Disordered Mind.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse university, discussing President Roosevelt's message, said: "If I am entirely honest and frank, I am compelled to say that much of it reads like the ravings of a disordered mind, and other portions, in which appeal is made to class prejudice and excitement, is large with the suggestion of the adroit and cunning, the shrewd, but reckless demagogue."

AUTHENTIC BIBLE CODEX.

Professor Saunders Holds Freer Manuscript Equal to Canonical Ones.

Professor H. A. Saunders of Michigan university told the Detroit Archaeological society the other day that the Freer Bible manuscript recently brought from Egypt is nothing less than a complete new codex covering two-thirds of the Bible and as authentic as any of the three codices heretofore known—namely, the Vatican, the Alexandrian and the Sinaitic. He is convinced of this because of the character of the manuscripts, says a Detroit correspondent of the New York Sun. They are a Greek transcript of some older manuscript, in which respect they are on a par with the three other recognized codices. The age of the collection Professor Saunders places at from 400 to 600 A. D.

The book does not contain the revelations of John. Dwelling on its feature, Professor Saunders made an interesting observation. The revelations of St. Peter were found not many years ago at the same place where this Freer codex was unearthed. The present codex, the professor advanced as a theory, was part of a Bible of six books which included the revelations of St. Peter instead of those of St. John and was used by a Greek church in upper Egypt and buried or lost at the time of the Moslem invasion of Egypt in 640.

WOMAN CREMATED AT GULL RIVER

Mrs. Mary Stevens Supposed to
Have Perished in Burning
of Her Home

FIRE DISCOVERED BY NEIGHBOR

Building was Enveloped in Flames
and Woman has not Been
Seen Since

That Mrs. Mary Stevens, living just over the line of Cass county, about four miles north of the village of Sylvan, perished Sunday morning in the burning of her residence is practically certain, although the remains had not been discovered at the time of going to press today. Mrs. Stevens was living alone, Benjamin Leach, who made his home there most of the time, being at work in the woods up on the Minnesota & International.

Caleb Bond, who lives about sixty rods from the Stevens place, saw the flames bursting out of the roof of the building about eight o'clock Sunday morning and rushed over there. When he arrived on the scene the building was a seething mass of flames. Mrs. Stevens was nowhere to be seen and she has not been seen since. It was utterly impossible to get into the building when Mr. Bond arrived and of course there is only conjecture as to the cause of the fire. Mr. Bond states that Mrs. Stevens had evidently been up that morning as the front door of the house was unlocked. When he got there smoke was coming out of the kitchen chimney, which would indicate that she had started a fire in that stove though the fire evidently originated in the front part of the house. Mrs. Stevens slept in a bedroom on the ground floor and it seems peculiar, if awake, that she could not have been able to escape from the burning building. The theory of Mr. Bond is that she had arisen, started fires in the heater and cook stove, gone back to bed and fallen asleep, suffocating or burning to death without becoming conscious.

Dr. Wilcox, of Walker, coroner of Cass county, was telephoned to last night and came down today, driving out from here.

The neighbors put the fire out as well as possible with water and snow and left things just as they were without making any search for the remains until the arrival of the coroner. Dr. Wilcox will probably return to Brainerd this evening with full particulars.

Mrs. Stevens owned a quarter section of land and a fairly good and large frame house on it. She has a daughter living in New York city but what other relatives she has is not known. Ben Leach, who at one time was a railroad man living in Brainerd, boarded with her off and on and according to the neighbors they were to have been married the coming spring. Mrs. Stevens was a woman of between sixty and seventy years of age, heavy and clumsy, and there is a possibility that she may have fallen while carrying a lamp or set the house on fire in some such way but the exact cause will never be known.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Chas. Kinkale has bought out the meat market and business of Max Shapiro.

White & White have taken contracts this week to erect two beautiful houses in East Brainerd.

Judge Sleeper, G. S. Fernald, N. H. Ingersoll and Justin Sleeper are in attendance at the republican convention at Minneapolis.

H. D. Pinkerton, a cousin of Mr. Losey, stopped over one day in Brainerd the first of the week. Mr. P. is in the machine business and resides in Crookston.

J. M. Martin was in the city from Crow Wing Tuesday. He says that the present winter has been the most severe of any he remembers since he came to Minnesota, which was many years ago. Until Tuesday there has been no track broken to Ft. Ripley. Mr. Martin says regardless of the severe weather he never saw stock look better than they do at present.

Mike Arnold was accidentally killed by the discharge of his own rifle while hunting with H. Ebinger near the wood camps north of the dam. He drew it up and the hammer caught on a stick and the piece was discharged the ball entered the body above the heart severing the large artery. Arnold bled to death before medical aid could reach him.

From Mr. Engman, of Deerwood, we learn that the residence of H. Patterson, county commission, was burned to the ground on Monday, together with all its contents except an organ, a sewing machine and a bureau. Unfortunately for Mr. Patterson there was no insurance on the place and in the dead of winter he and his family are left without the shelter of a home of their own, the entire winter's supply of provisions having been destroyed with the balance of the property. A subscription was started in this city to raise funds with which to enable Mr. Patterson to rebuild his house, and we understand that about $400 has already been raised.

On Monday evening about 7 o'clock a man named John Winer committed suicide in a small building on Sixth street two doors north of the Palace hotel, by placing a revolver to his right temple and blowing his brains out. He was unable to get work and has just been dunned for a board bill.

As soon as the weather will permit in the spring the Y. M. C. A. of this city will commence the erection of a handsome and durable structure for the accommodation of the association. The building will be two stories with a sixteen foot basement underneath for the accommodation of the gymnasium. It will be located in the park on Front street between Fifth and Sixth streets, the Northern Pacific company having generously giving the association a lease of the property. The building when completed will cost between $3,000 and $4,000 of which over half has already been raised.

How to Avoid Pneumonia

ON INSPECTION TRIP

Several Heavy Lumbermen Went to International Falls Today with General Manager Gemmell

General Manager Gemmell, of the Minnesota & International, who returned yesterday from a business trip to the twin cities, went north today in the business car of the company. With him went C. A. Weyerhaeuser and Drew Musser, of Little Falls, Rudolph Weyerhaeuser and H. Thornby, of Cloquet, all of whom are heavily interested in the Weyerhaeuser lumber operations. The gentlemen go to International Falls tonight and expect to remain there tomorrow.

An insidious Danger

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. H. P. Dunn. mwfdw

The French government has decided definitely to recall M. Bompard, the French ambassador to Russia.

The four-story brick building containing the mechanical department of the Cleveland Plaindealer Publishing company has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $200,000.

The Pennsylvania Railway company's summer freight house and about twenty freight cars at Cleveland have been destroyed by fire. Loss, about $75,000.

Henry Oliver Collins, until recently editor of the Missoulian and in former years associate of Eugene Field, Ople Read and Charles Hasbrouck in Denver, died at Missoula, Mont., of pneumonia.

That J. E. Marple, the Minneapolis printer who mysteriously disappeared nearly three weeks ago, has been the victim of foul play, is the theory now adopted by the Minneapolis police. Not a trace of him has been found.

DISPATCH HAD A CLOSE CALL

Fire Under Floor of Dispatch
Building Endangered and
Damaged Structure

FIRE WAS PUT OUT EASILY

Stock of Soloski & Levant on
First Floor Damaged Badly
by Smoke and Water

What might have proven a very bad conflagration started in THE DISPATCH building shortly before noon Sunday. The fire, which started from defective hot air pipes from the furnace heating the first floor, which is occupied by Soloski & Levant's clothing store, was first discovered by Mr. F. W. Wieland who was in THE DISPATCH office on the second floor. An alarm was immediately turned in and the department was on hand promptly. A flood of water was turned into the basement but without effect as there was no fire there, only smoke. The rear windows were then broken out and a draft of air permitted to pass freely into the room driving out the smoke which permitted the firemen to develop the fire quickly which was under the floor in the rear of the basement, and by chopping through the floor in several places subdue it easily.

The heaviest damage falls on Soloski & Levant whose stock of clothing was badly smoked and some portions of it wet. They place their loss at $3,000, which is covered by insurance. The damage to the building which is owned by Ingersoll & Wieland, will not exceed $400 which is also fully covered by insurance.

Soloski & Levant are open for business today though their stock is out of place and the store looks hard only temporary repairs having been made in the floor. THE DISPATCH office was not affected by the fire.

OLD RESIDENTS PASSED AWAY

Dan Whitford Died Very Suddenly
ly at Northome Saturday
—Body Brought Here

RESIDENT FOR MANY YEARS

Phillip O'Neil, Father of Mrs.
Hugh Breason Died Sunday
Morning

The recent cold snap has apparently proved hard on elderly people. Two old gentlemen, both of whom had been residents of Brainerd for a long time passed away within a few hours Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Frank Whitford received a telegram this morning announcing the death of his father, Dan W. Whitford, at Northome Saturday evening. The telegram brought no particulars except that he died very suddenly and that the body would be brought here for burial.

Daniel W. Whitford was born in the state of New York and would have been 73 years of age had he lived until next June. He was married in Amboy, Ill., to Rachel Springer in 1858. They came to Brainerd over 25 years ago, making this their home until the death of Mrs. Whitford about nine years ago. Since that time Mr. Whitford has made this his home except that he has spent some time at the home of his son Frank at Northome. There were three children born to Mr. and Mrs. Whitford, only one, their son Frank, surviving them. Another son Byron Whitford dropped dead on the streets of this city a year ago last summer.

Mr. Whitford was a veteran of the Civil war having served in the 7th Wisconsin battery under Captain Wheelock.

The remains were brought down today by Mrs. Frank Whitford, at whose home he died and the funeral will be held at the residence of Mrs. Susan Whitford, 1024 South Sixth street at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of Pap Thomas Post, G. A. R., of which he was a member.

Philip O'Neill, father of Mrs. Hugh Breason, died at the home of his daughter, 621 Kingwood street, Sunday morning, February 2d. Mr. O'Neill was 70 years of age and had been in poor health for a long time. He was born in Ireland and had been a resident of Brainerd for over 35 years and was well known to all the old settlers.

The funeral will take place from St. Francis church on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. J. J. O'Mahoney officiating. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery. Besides his daughter and her family Mr. O'Neill leaves a daughter and a brother in Omaha and a sister in New York City.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by continually coughing is requested to buy a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. H. P. Dunn. mwfdw

Otherwise They Will Escape Punishment, Says Bonaparte.

Baltimore, Feb. 3.—After having declined to express his views on the recent message sent to congress by President Roosevelt and also on the speech delivered by Governor Hughes of New York, United States Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte dictated the following for the Sun:

"There is one matter, however, about which I can speak with knowledge: if great clusters of corporations, such as the Standard Oil company, the tobacco trust, the powder trust, and our well-known railroad systems, are not to be punished by fines imposed on convicted corporations, this means that in 99 cases out of 100 they will not be punished at all. It is often possible to obtain legal proof on which to convict the corporation when it would be altogether impossible to obtain evidence to satisfy a jury against any one of its superior officers."

WOMAN CREMATED AT GULL RIVER

Mrs. Mary Stevens Supposed to
Have Perished in Burning
of Her Home

FIRE DISCOVERED BY NEIGHBOR
Building was Enveloped in Flames
and Woman has Not Been Seen Since

That Mrs. Mary Stevens, living just over the line of Cass county, about four miles north of the village of Sylvan, perished Sunday morning in the burning of her residence is practically certain, although the remains had not been discovered at the time of going to press today. Mrs. Stevens was living alone, Benjamin Leach, who made his home there most of the time, being at work in the woods up on the Minnesota & International.

Caleb Bond, who lives about sixty rods from the Stevens place, saw the flames bursting out of the roof of the building about eight o'clock Sunday morning and rushed over there. When he arrived on the scene the building was a seething mass of flames. Mrs. Stevens was nowhere to be seen and she has not been seen since. It was utterly impossible to get into the building when Mr. Bond arrived and of course there is only conjecture as to the cause of the fire. Mr. Bond states that Mrs. Stevens had evidently been up that morning as the front door of the house was unlocked. When he got there smoke was coming out of the kitchen chimney, which would indicate that she had started a fire in that stove though the fire evidently originated in the front part of the house. Mrs. Stevens slept in a bedroom on the ground floor and it seems peculiar, if awake, that she could not have been able to escape from the burning building. The theory of Mr. Bond is that she had arisen, started fires in the heater and cook stove, gone back to bed and fallen asleep, suffocating or burning to death without becoming conscious.

Dr. Wilcox, of Walker, coroner of Cass county, was telephoned to last night and came down today, driving out from here.

The neighbors put the fire out as well as possible with water and snow and left things just as they were without making any search for the remains until the arrival of the coroner. Dr. Wilcox will probably return to Brainerd this evening with full particulars.

Mrs. Stevens owned a quarter section of land and a fairly good and large frame house on it. She has a daughter living in New York city but what other relatives she has is not known. Ben Leach, who at one time was a railroad man living in Brainerd, boarded with her off and on and according to the neighbors they were to have been married the coming spring. Mrs. Stevens was a woman of between sixty and seventy years of age, heavy and clumsy, and there is a possibility that she may have fallen while carrying a lamp or set the house on fire in some such way but the exact cause will never be known.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Chas. Kinkle has bought out the meat market and business of Max Shapiro.

White & White have taken contracts this week to erect two beautiful houses in East Brainerd.

Judge Sleeper, G. S. Fernald, N. H. Ingersoll and Justin Sleeper are in attendance at the republican convention at Minneapolis.

H. D. Pinkerton, a cousin of Mr. Losey, stopped over one day in Brainerd the first of the week. Mr. P. is in the machine business and resides in Crookston.

J. M. Martin was in the city from Crow Wing Tuesday. He says that the present winter has been the most severe of any he remembers since he came to Minnesota, which was many years ago. Until Tuesday there has been no track broken to Ft. Ripley. Mr. Martin says regardless of the severe weather he never saw stock look better than they do at present.

Mike Arnold was accidentally killed by the discharge of his own rifle while hunting with H. Ebinger near the wood camps north of the dam. He drew it up and the hammer caught on a stick and the piece was discharged the ball entered the body above the heart severing the large artery. Arnold bled to death before medical aid could reach him.

From Mr. Engman, of Deerwood, we learn that the residence of H. Patterson, county commission, was burned to the ground on Monday, together with all its contents except an organ, a sewing machine and a bureau. Unfortunately for Mr. Patterson there was no insurance on the place and in the dead of winter he and his family are left without the shelter of a home of their own, the entire winter's supply of provisions having been destroyed with the balance of the property. A subscription was started in this city to raise funds with which to enable Mr. Patterson to rebuild his house, and we understand that about $400 has already been raised.

On Monday evening about 7 o'clock a man named John Winer committed suicide in a small building on Sixth street two doors north of the Palace hotel, by placing a revolver to his right temple and blowing his brains out. He was unable to get work and has just been dunned for a board bill.

As soon as the weather will permit in the spring the Y. M. C. A. of this city will commence the erection of a handsome and durable structure for the accommodation of the association. The building will be two stories with a sixteen foot basement underneath for the accommodation of the gymnasium. It will be located in the park on Front street between Fifth and Sixth streets, the Northern Pacific company having generously giving the association a lease of the property. The building when completed will cost between $3,000 and $4,000 of which over half has already been raised.

ON INSPECTION TRIP
Several Heavy Lumbermen Went to International Falls Today with General Manager Gemmell

General Manager Gemmell, of the Minnesota & International, who returned yesterday from a business trip to the twin cities, went north today in the business car of the company. With him went C. A. The gentlemen go to International Falls tonight and expect to remain there tomorrow.

The French government has decided definitely to recall M. Bompard, the French ambassador to Russia.

The four-story brick building containing the mechanical department of the Cleveland Plaindealer Publishing company has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $200,000.

The Pennsylvania Railway company's summer freight house and about twenty freight cars at Cleveland have been destroyed by fire. Loss, about $75,000.

Henry Oliver Collins, until recently editor of the Missoulian and in former years associate of Eugene Field, Opie Read and Charles Hasbrouck in Denver, died at Missoula, Mont., of pneumonia.

That J. E. Marple, the Minneapolis printer who mysteriously disappeared nearly three weeks ago, has been the victim of foul play, is the theory now adopted by the Minneapolis police. Not a trace of him has been found.

DISPATCH HAD A CLOSE CALL

Fire Under Floor of Dispatch
Building Endangered and
Damaged Structure

FIRE WAS PUT OUT EASILY

Stock of Soloski & Levant on
First Floor Damaged Badly
by Smoke and Water

What might have proven a very bad conflagration started in THE DISPATCH building shortly before noon Sunday. The fire, which started from defective hot air pipes from the furnace heating the first floor, which is occupied by Soloski & Levant's clothing store, was first discovered by Mr. F. W. Wieland who was in THE DISPATCH office on the second floor. An alarm was immediately turned in and the department was on hand promptly. A flood of water was turned into the basement but without effect as there was no fire there, only smoke. The rear windows were then broken out and a draft of air permitted to pass freely into the room driving out the smoke which permitted the firemen to develop the fire quickly which was under the floor in the rear of the basement, and by chopping through the floor in several places subdue it easily.

The heaviest damage falls on Soloski & Levant whose stock of clothing was badly smoked and some portions of it wet. They place their loss at $3,000, which is covered by insurance. The damage to the building which is owned by Ingersoll & Wieland, will not exceed $400 which is also fully covered by insurance.

Soloski & Levant are open for business today though their stock is out of place and the store looks hard only temporary repairs having been made in the floor. THE DISPATCH office was not affected by the fire.

OLD RESIDENTS PASSED AWAY

Dan Whitford Died Very Suddenly
at Northome Saturday
—Body Brought Here

RESIDENT FOR MANY YEARS

Phillip O'Neil, Father of Mrs.
Hugh Breason Died Sunday
Morning

The recent cold snap has apparently proved hard on elderly people. Two old gentlemen, both of whom had been residents of Brainerd for a long time passed away within a few hours Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Frank Whitford received a telegram this morning announcing the death of his father, Dan W. Whitford, at Northome Saturday evening. The telegram brought no particulars except that he died very suddenly and that the body would be brought here for burial.

Daniel W. Whitford was born in the state of New York and would have been 73 years of age had he lived until next June. He was married in Amboy, Ill., to Rachel Springer in 1858. They came to Brainerd over 25 years ago, making this their home until the death of Mrs. Whitford about nine years ago. Since that time Mr. Whitford has made this his home except that he has spent some time at the home of his son Frank at Northome. There were three children born to Mr. and Mrs. Whitford, only one, their son Frank, surviving them. Another son Byron Whitford dropped dead on the streets of this city a year ago last summer.

Mr. Whitford was a veteran of the Civil war having served in the 7th Wisconsin battery under Captain Wheelock.

The remains were brought down today by Mrs. Frank Whitford, at whose home he died and the funeral will be held at the residence of Mrs. Susan Whitford, 1024 South Sixth street at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of Pap Thomas Post, G. A. R., of which he was a member.

Philip O'Neill, father of Mrs. Hugh Breason, died at the home of his daughter, 621 Kingwood street, Sunday morning, February 2d. Mr. O'Neill was 70 years of age and had been in poor health for a long time. He was born in Ireland and had been a resident of Brainerd for over 35 years and was well known to all the old settlers.

The funeral will take place from St. Francis church on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. J. J. O'Mahoney officiating. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery. Besides his daughter and her family Mr. O'Neill leaves a daughter and a brother in Omaha and a sister in New York City.

TRUSTS MUST BE FINED.

Otherwise They Will Escape Punishment, Says Bonaparte.

Baltimore, Feb. 3.—After having declined to express his views on the recent message sent to congress by President Roosevelt and also on the speech delivered by Governor Hughes of New York, United States Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte dictated the following for the Sun:

"There is one matter, however, about which I can speak with knowledge: If great clusters of corporations, such as the Standard Oil company, the tobacco trust, the powder trust, and our well-known railroad systems, are not to be punished by fines imposed on convicted corporations, this means that in 99 cases out of 100 they will not be punished at all. It is often possible to obtain legal proof on which to convict the corporation when it would be altogether impossible to obtain evidence to satisfy a jury against any one of its superior officers."

BIG POLAR AUTO RACE

Advice For Contestants From Experienced Arctic Travelers.

USE OF SLEDS SUGGESTED.

Vancouver Man Tells How Contestants In New York to Paris Race Can Relieve Weight on Autos—Explorer Says Use Horses to Haul Supplies.

Harry G. McLean of Vancouver, B. C., who was interviewed at New York on the overland automobile race from New York to Paris, which has been arranged by the New York Times and the Matin of Paris, says there are several things necessary for the comfort of the men on the trip to which attention might well be called.

Mr. McLean has spent a great deal of time in British Columbia and has also been in the arctic sections of Alaska, having made several trips to Point Barlow, the extreme northern point where many of the whaling fleets make their headquarters during the whaling season. He has traveled quite extensively by sled and knows many of the most obscure paths and trails of the country that is never without its covering of snow, and therefore his views may be considered as helping the solution of the problem that faces the men who will undertake to drive the machines across ice and snow, says the New York Times.

"The more I think of the trip, of which I have been reading in one section of the country and another since its inception, the more I am convinced that it can be made, but it will be made under conditions never before met by men. In the first place, the trip cannot be made unless accompanied by guides and sleds, so that every possible bit of weight can be taken from the cars—that is to say, that all camping material, all food and extra clothing should be hauled on sleds.

"These sled trains can then serve two purposes—first, to take weight from the cars and then as scouts and trail breakers, so to speak, going ahead of the cars and, to a certain extent, picking out the best way for the machines to go and in a very small way breaking the trail of the snow.

"The sleds more commonly in use in the arctic regions are from nine to ten feet long and twenty-two inches wide, the runners about twelve inches deep and the sides about eighteen inches high. The sled proper is an open framework of oak or hickory, no more wood being used than is absolutely necessary. All the parts are lashed together with strips of seal skin or walrus hide. Few or no nails are used; so, while the sled is very strong, it is also flexible and able to withstand the rough usage to which it is constantly subjected in traveling. In passing I might interject that the automobile construction should receive a thought in this direction of elasticity, for there are some terrible wrenches to be undergone. The sled cover, of light drilling, is made large enough to spread all over the whole length of the sled on the bottom.

"Incidentally, harnessing the dogs to the sleds, which it is well to know about, for the natives cannot be entirely depended to stick to the job, is quite an interesting undertaking. The harness is made of strips of heavy ticking, canvas, sennit or seal hide and is all in one piece for each dog. A strip goes around the dog's neck and crosses in front of the chest, where the two parts are fastened together to form a collar. The ends then go underneath the fore legs and lead up, one on each side, to the dog's back. Another strip is fastened to the top of the collar at the back of the neck and leads along the back to meet the other two ends, and here all three pieces are secured together and made fast to a small piece of rope about two feet long. "In harnessing a dog the collar is put on over the head, each of his fore feet put through one of the loops formed by the ends coming together, and he is ready to be made fast to the sled. A larger rope, the length of which depends upon the number of dogs to be used, is made fast to the front of the sled, and to this is secured the small rope of the dog's harness, the dogs being yoked in pairs, one on each side of the central rope. The team generally consists of an odd number of dogs, the odd dog being hitched to the central line in front of the other dogs and acts as a leader. This plan is used by the white people in the lower Yukon and is considered better than the plan of the natives of hitching the dogs one ahead of the other.

"Another thing of importance next to the food is the camp gear to be used when stops are made for the night where there are no native huts or other shelter; of course, tents to accommodate each party—that is, the party in each machine. But this is added weight to the equipment to be carried on the sleds and can easily be done away with. The favorite way of the Eskimos for camping in that part of the country is to build snow houses at night when they get ready to stop.

"The wind packs the snow so hard that it can easily be cut into blocks with a long knife. From these blocks in a short time can be constructed a small strong house, the cracks being stopped up with loose snow, which freezes quickly, and for the door a large block of snow can be used. In this way the house is made practically air tight. Soon the warmth of the bodies of three or four people will raise the temperature of the place so that it is fairly comfortable, and some of the clothing can be removed. On account of the difficulties of construction a snow house cannot be made as large as a tent, but where there is no

SON FOUND GUILTY.

But Father Is Acquitted by Jury at Hastings, Minn.

Hastings, Minn., Feb. 3.—"Guilty of manslaughter in the first degree" for the son and "not guilty" for the father was the double verdict rendered by the jury here in the Brennan murder trial. The jury was out almost an even twelve hours. No notice of appeal has been given, but the citizens generally were surprised at the findings, as their sympathies seemed to be with the prisoners.

Anthony Brennan, the murdered man, was shot while in a field on his farm on Aug. 27, 1907. At the time of the shooting he was engaged in a quarrel with Michael Nolan Brennan and the latter's son, Michael Brennan, Jr., over the boundary lines of their farms, which adjoin each other.

Both father and son were arrested, and on the death of the wounded man a day or two later were charged with murder.

During the trial it developed that there had been trouble between the Brennan families ever since they had lived on the adjoining farms, and an attempt was made to show premeditation of murder on the part of the defendants. The testimony also revealed an attack on the younger man by Anthony Brennan during the quarrel on the day of the crime, and during which Anthony Brennan struck Michael Brennan, Jr., on the face with a stick. It was following this blow that the shot which resulted in Anthony's death was fired.

The young man admitted the shooting, but declared he did not intend to do more than wound his assailant and that he intended to shoot him in the leg. Self-defense was the plea made by both the Brennans.

Two Enginemen Injured.

St. Paul, Feb. 3.—Frank Whalen, engineer, and Charles Hessler, fireman of passenger train No. 4 of the Chicago Great Western railway, were seriously hurt when the engine left the tracks and rolled over an embankment about a mile from South St. Paul.

EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE.

Fatally Injures Wisconsin Woman and Seriously Hurts Two Other People.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Feb. 3.—As a result of an explosion of gasoline in the home of Dr. Pomainville of this city, Miss Martha Goosman is so seriously burned that she cannot recover, Dr. Pomainville is in a critical condition, Mrs. Pomainville has seriously bilatered hands and one room of the house is badly damaged. An infant child of Dr. and Mrs. Pomainville was in the room at the time and its clothing caught fire, but the child itself escaped injury.

Miss Goosman was holding the can of liquid when the explosion occurred, and she was the most seriously injured of any of the victims. The doctor, who rushed to the woman's assistance, received some severe burns about the abdomen and legs, and it was said that although he may recover, his condition is extremely critical. When the blazing fluid flew from the can some of it fell on the clothing of the baby, and the light material blazed up at once. The mother seized the child and fought the fire desperately with her hands, finally tearing the blazing garments from the child's body. She suffered some bad burns in the process, but the child was not injured.

The damage to the house was slight.

ENJOY HOSPITALITY.

Officers and Men of American Fleet Go Ashore at Punta Arenas.

Punta Arenas, Strait of Magellan, Feb. 3.—The officers and men of the American fleet, now that the warships are safely riding at anchor, are beginning to enjoy hospitality ashore. Official visits have been exchanged. Admiral Thomas returned the visit of Admiral Simpson, the head of the Chilean delegation, which came here on the cruiser Chacabuco, to Admiral Evans, and there were cordial greetings on both sides.

The officers of the American fleet have a desire to call at Valparaiso, but this will be impossible. Admiral Evans says he will pass close enough to see and be seen by the watchers on shore.

There is great enthusiasm here and a hearty desire on the part of the residents to make the stay of the Americans enjoyable. A banquet was given on the Chacabuco and a ball has been arranged for at the residence of the American consular agent, Moritz Brown. Rowing competitions between the various champion crews of the vessels also are being arranged.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED

Several Persons Seriously Hurt in an Accident in Tennessee.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Passenger train No. 35, known as the New York limited on the Southern railway, was wrecked one mile east of Sweetwater, Tenn. The train while going at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour ran into an open switch and crashed into a loaded coal car. A number of persons were seriously injured. The most seriously hurt are:

Engineer Copeland, Knoxville; Mail Clerk I. M. Thomas, Cleveland, Tenn.; Robert Ashton, express messenger; Mail Clerk J. C. Matthews, Johnson City.

The passengers were all badly shaken up and the track was blocked for some hours.

Stricken With Appendicitis.

St. Louis, Feb. 3.—While en route here from Nashville, Tenn., Rev. Ira Landrich D. D., general secretary of the Presbyterian Brotherhood of America, was suddenly stricken with appendicitis and immediately upon arrival was taken to the Southern hotel and attended by Dr. L. H. Behrens. On advice of Dr. Behrens, Rev. Landrich was taken back to his home in Nashville.

SEAGOING RAILROAD.

Remarkable Line That Runs On Florida Keys.

CUBA NOW HALF A DAY NEARER

In Another Year Railway to Connect Key West With Coast Will Be Finished to Within Ninety Miles of Havana—Now Open to Knights Key.

When a train with a little party of passengers on board recently pulled slowly southward out of the station of Miami, on the extreme southeastern coast of Florida, its unostentatious departure marked a dramatic moment in the history of a man and a railroad and an event the bearing of which upon the future relations of the United States and her neighbors of the West Indies can only be fully told by time, says a St. Augustine (Fla.) special dispatch to the New York Globe.

The train was the first over the famous "seagoing railroad" which Henry M. Flagler has been pushing with all the resources of the Florida East Coast system, which he rules, literally out over the sea toward Key West and Havana. When the trains began running to Knights Key, Cuba was brought half a day nearer the United States, and Havana was for the first time placed in direct connection with New York and Chicago.

The traveler can now board a Pullman train in either of these cities, which across a dozen degrees of latitude direct to Knights Key and there step from the train aboard a boat which will land him in the Cuban capital, 115 miles distant, within six hours. In another year, when the remaining forty-seven miles to Key West have been opened, the distance between Uncle Sam and his island ward will be still further reduced. Key West is but ninety miles from Havana, and it is planned to join the two by a ferry service which shall take the trains themselves straight through.

The conditions that confronted the builders were these: From the southern mainland of Florida in a long curving line to the southwestward the coral islets called the Florida keys stretch away to Key West, the last of the chain. Eastward lies the Atlantic, westward the bay of Florida. Beginning at Homestead, twenty-eight miles south of Miami, where the road ended, they must build along the line of these keys and across the scores of channels and passages which separate them one from another a road which should be so solidly based as to withstand the dreaded autumn hurricanes which have their breeding place among the West Indian islands. Some of the channels are a few feet wide, some thousands of feet and some miles. The widest of all, the spanning of which was the last piece of work in the completion of the section now opened, is five and a half miles across from island to island. Everything except the rock for the roadbed and embankments had to be transported from the mainland, for the keys are mostly barren and could furnish no supplies. Even water had to be brought in tanks, and the workmen had to be housed in floating dormitories over much of the distance.

In spite of these difficulties and of the obstacles of mud and water, stiff currents, jungle, rock, heat, mosquitoes and storms, the work, once begun, has been pushed steadily on without a halt until the ad is in sight. From Homestead, where the extension begins, it is seventeen miles to the coast at Water's Edge. This part of the construction is on the mainland, but it is through the strange south Floridian region of low everglades and mangrove swamps, interspersed with higher patches of rocky pine land.

From Water's Edge the road crosses Jewish creek, uniting Barnes and Blackwater sounds by a drawbridge, and after skirting Lake Surprise, where thousands of tons of filling were swallowed up in a vain attempt to run the road straight across the lake, it lands upon the middle of Key Largo, the largest of the keys. Fifteen miles bring the southern end of Largo, and there the road becomes really amphibious. Of the seventy-seven miles remaining to Knights Key more than half is built over water on cement and coral rock embankments or on concrete viaducts, supported on concrete piers anchored to the rock bottom and strengthened with piles. At the deeper channels there are drawbridges to admit the passage of vessels, and in the embankments which cross the shallower passages are twenty-five foot water openings at frequent intervals.

From Key Largo the extension crosses Tavernier creek to Plantation key, which it traverses, thence over another narrow arm called Snake creek to Windys island, then across a wider passage to Upper Metacumbe key. The longest viaduct yet reached carries the road from Upper Metacumbe to Lower Metacumbe, whence a still longer embankment takes it over the wide channel to Long key, the next stepping stone. Then from Long key to Grassy key comes the longest leap of the whole way. Between these two there are five and one-half miles of sea, which are crossed by the famous "ocean viaduct," over which the rails are carried thirty-one feet above the main surface level of the water. From Grassy key a number of small islets and intervening passages are crossed to the larger Key Vaca, from which, by a narrow channel, the diminutive Hog key and another channel, Knights Key, is reached, where the journey by rail is ended for the present.

Kidney Troubles

FROM THE LIVER.

In his study of kidney disease, Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, found that 90 per cent. of the cases arose as a direct result of liver and bowel disorders, and working on this idea led to the discovery of his celebrated Kidney and Liver Pills, the only Kidney medicine having a combined action on liver and bowels as well.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills

By this unique action, cure the most complicated diseases of the kidneys when ordinary medicines fail. They also prevent kidney disease by curing liver complaint, biliousness and constipation. Try them when the back aches or there are rheumatic pains, or deposits in the urine. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Mary Jones, 831 East 2nd St., Mt. Vernon, Ind., states:

"I, formerly suffered from Kidney trouble and severe pains in the back, Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills effected a thorough and lasting cure, and I consider them a splendid medicine."

BIG POLAR AUTO RACE

Advice For Contestants From Experienced Arctic Travelers.

USE OF SLEDS SUGGESTED.

Vancouver Man Tells How Contestants In New York to Paris Race Can Relieve Weight on Autos—Explorer Says Use Horses to Haul Supplies.

Harry G. McLean of Vancouver, B. C., who was interviewed at New York on the overland automobile race from New York to Paris, which has been arranged by the New York Times and the Matin of Paris, says there are several things necessary for the comfort of the men on the trip to which attention might well be called.

Mr. McLean has spent a great deal of time in British Columbia and has also been in the arctic sections of Alaska, having made several trips to Point Barlow, the extreme northern point where many of the whaling fleets make their headquarters during the whaling season. He has traveled quite extensively by sled and knows many of the most obscure paths and trails of the country that is never without its covering of snow, and therefore his views may be considered as helping the solution of the problem that faces the men who will undertake to drive the machines across ice and snow, says the New York Times.

"The more I think of the trip, of which I have been reading in one section of the country and another since its inception, the more I am convinced that it can be made, but it will be made under conditions never before met by men. In the first place, the trip cannot be made unless accompanied by guides and sleds, so that every possible bit of weight can be taken from the cars—that is to say, that all camping material, all food and extra clothing should be hauled on sleds.

"These sled trains can then serve two purposes—first, to take weight from the cars and then as scouts and trail breakers, so to speak, going ahead of the cars and, to a certain extent, picking out the best way for the machines to go and in a very small way breaking the trail of the snow.

"The sleds more commonly in use in the arctic regions are from nine to ten feet long and twenty-two inches wide, the runners about twelve inches deep and the sides about eighteen inches high. The sled proper is an open framework of oak or hickory, no more wood being used than is absolutely necessary. All the parts are lashed together with strips of sealskin or walrus hide. Few or no nails are used; so, while the sled is very strong, it is also flexible and able to withstand the rough usage to which it is constantly subjected in traveling. In passing I might interject that the automobile construction should receive a thought in this direction of elasticity, for there are some terrible wrenches to be undergone. The sled cover, of light drilling, is made large enough to spread all over the whole length of the sled on the bottom.

"Incidentally, harnessing the dogs to the sleds, which it is well to know about, for the natives cannot be entirely depended to stick to the job, is quite an interesting undertaking. The harness is made of strips of heavy ticking, canvas, sennit or seal hide and is all in one piece for each dog. A strip goes around the dog's neck and crosses in front of the chest, where the two parts are fastened together to form a collar. The ends then go underneath the fore legs and lead up, one on each side, to the dog's back. Another strip is fastened to the top of the collar at the back of the neck and leads along the back to meet the other two ends, and here all three pieces are secured together and made fast to a small piece of rope about two feet long.

"In harnessing a dog the collar is put on over the head, each of his fore feet put through one of the loops formed by the ends coming together, and he is ready to be made fast to the sled. A larger rope, the length of which depends upon the number of dogs to be used, is made fast to the front of the sled, and to this is secured the small rope of the dog's harness, the dogs being yoked in pairs, one on each side of the central rope. The team generally consists of an odd number of dogs, the odd dog being hitched to the central line in front of the other dogs and acts as a leader. This plan is used by the white people in the lower Yukon and is considered better than the plan of the natives of hitching the dogs one ahead of the other.

"Another thing of importance next to the food is the camp gear to be used when stops are made for the night where there are no native huts or other shelter; of course, tents to accommodate each party—that is, the party in each machine. But this is added weight to the equipment to be carried on the sleds and can easily be done away with. The favorite way of the Eskimos for camping in that part of the country is to build snow houses at night when they get ready to stop.

"The wind packs the snow so hard that it can easily be cut into blocks with a long knife. From these blocks in a short time can be constructed a small strong house, the cracks being stopped up with loose snow, which freezes quickly, and for the door a large block of snow can be used. In this way the house is made practically air tight. Soon the warmth of the bodies of three or four people will raise the temperature of the place so that it is fairly comfortable, and some of the clothing can be removed. On account of the difficulties of construction a snow house cannot be made as large as a tent, but where there is no

SON FOUND GUILTY.

But Father Is Acquitted by Jury at Hastings, Minn.

Hastings, Minn., Feb. 3.—"Guilty of manslaughter in the first degree" for the son and "not guilty" for the father was the double verdict rendered by the jury here in the Brennan murder trial. The jury was out almost an even twelve hours. No notice of appeal has been given, but the citizens generally were surprised at the findings, as their sympathies seemed to be with the prisoners.

Anthony Brennan, the murdered man, was shot while in a field on his farm on Aug. 27, 1907. At the time of the shooting he was engaged in a quarrel with Michael Nolan Brennan and the latter's son, Michael Brennan, Jr., over the boundary lines of their farms, which adjoin each other.

Both father and son were arrested, and on the death of the wounded man a day or two later were charged with murder.

During the trial it developed that there had been trouble between the Brennan families ever since they had lived on the adjoining farms, and an attempt was made to show premeditation of murder on the part of the defendants. The testimony also revealed an attack on the younger man by Anthony Brennan during the quarrel on the day of the crime, and during which Anthony Brennan struck Michael Brennan, Jr., on the face with a stick. It was following this blow that the shot which resulted in Anthony's death was fired.

The young man admitted the shooting, but declared he did not intend to do more than wound his assailant and that he intended to shoot him in the leg. Self-defense was the plea made by both the Brennans.

Two Enginemen Injured.

St. Paul, Feb. 3.—Frank Whalen, engineer, and Charles Hessler, fireman of passenger train No. 4 of the Chicago Great Western railway, were seriously hurt when the engine left the tracks and rolled over an embankment about a mile from South St. Paul.

EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE.

Fatally Injures Wisconsin Woman and Seriously Hurts Two Other People.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Feb. 3.—As a result of an explosion of gasoline in the home of Dr. Pomainville of this city, Miss Martha Goosman is so seriously burned that she cannot recover, Dr. Pomainville is in a critical condition, Mrs. Pomainville has seriously blistered hands and one room of the house is badly damaged. An infant child of Dr. and Mrs. Pomainville was in the room at the time and its clothing caught fire, but the child itself escaped injury.

Miss Goosman was holding the can of liquid when the explosion occurred, and she was the most seriously injured of any of the victims. The doctor, who rushed to the woman's assistance, received some severe burns about the abdomen and legs, and it was said that although he may recover, his condition is extremely critical.

When the blazing fluid flew from the can some of it fell on the clothing of the baby, and the light material blazed up at once. The mother seized the child and fought the fire desperately with her hands, finally tearing the blazing garments from the child's body. She suffered some bad burns in the process, but the child was not injured.

The damage to the house was slight.

ENJOY HOSPITALITY.

Officers and Men of American Fleet Go Ashore at Punta Arenas.

Punta Arenas, Strait of Magellan, Feb. 3.—The officers and men of the American fleet, now that the warships are safely riding at anchor, are beginning to enjoy hospitality ashore. Official visits have been exchanged. Admiral Thomas returned the visit of Admiral Shapson, the head of the Chilean delegation, which came here on the cruiser Chacabuco, to Admiral Evans, and there were cordial greetings on both sides.

The officers of the American fleet have a desire to call at Valparaiso, but this will be impossible. Admiral Evans says he will pass close enough to see and be seen by the watchers on shore.

There is great enthusiasm here and a hearty desire on the part of the residents to make the stay of the Americans enjoyable. A banquet was given on the Chacabuco and a ball has been arranged for at the residence of the American consular agent, Moritz Braun. Rowing competitions between the various champion crews of the vessels also are being arranged.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED

Several Persons Seriously Hurt in an Accident in Tennessee.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Passenger train No. 35, known as the New York limited on the Southern railway, was wrecked one mile east of Sweet water, Tenn. The train while going at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour ran into an open switch and crashed into a loaded coal car. A number of persons were seriously injured. The most seriously hurt are:

Engineer Copeland, Knoxville; Mail Clerk I. M. Thomas, Cleveland, Tenn.; Robert Ashton, express messenger; Mail Clerk J. C. Matthews, Johnson City.

The passengers were all badly shaken up and the track was blocked for some hours.

Stricken With Appendicitis.

St. Louis, Feb. 3.—While en route here from Nashville, Tenn., Rev. Ira Landrich D. D., general secretary of the Presbyterian Brotherhood of America, was suddenly stricken with appendicitis and immediately upon arrival was taken to the Southern hotel and attended by Dr. L. H. Behrens. On advice of Dr. Behrens, Rev. Landrich was taken back to his home in Nashville.

SEAGOING RAILROAD.

Remarkable Line That Runs On Florida Keys.

CUBA NOW HALF A DAY NEARER

In Another Year Railway to Connect Key West With Coast Will Be Finished to Within Ninety Miles of Havana—Now Open to Knights Key.

When a train with a little party of passengers on board recently pulled slowly southward out of the station of Miami, on the extreme southeastern coast of Florida, its unostentatious departure marked a dramatic moment in the history of a man and a railroad and an event the bearing of which upon the future relations of the United States and her neighbors of the West Indies can only be fully told by time, says a St. Augustine (Fla.) special dispatch to the New York Globe.

The train was the first over the famous "seagoing railroad" which Henry M. Flagler has been pushing with all the resources of the Florida East Coast system, which he rules, literally out over the sea toward Key West and Havana. When the trains began running to Knights Key, Cuba was brought half a day nearer the United States, and Havana was for the first time placed in direct connection with New York and Chicago.

The traveler can now board a Pullman train in either of these cities, whil across a dozen degrees of latitude direct to Knights Key and there step from the train aboard a boat which will land him in the Cuban capital, 115 miles distant, within six hours. In another year, when the remaining forty-seven miles to Key West have been opened, the distance between Uncle Sam and his island ward will be still further reduced. Key West is but ninety miles from Havana, and it is planned to join the two by a ferry service which shall take the trains themselves straight through.

The conditions that confronted the builders were these: From the southern mainland of Florida in a long curving line to the southwestward the coral islets called the Florida keys stretch away to Key West, the last of the chain. Eastward lies the Atlantic, westward the bay of Florida. Beginning at Homestead, twenty-eight miles south of Miami, where the road ended, they must build along the line of these keys and across the scores of channels and passages which separate them one from another a road which should be so solidly based as to withstand the dreaded autumn hurricanes which have their breeding place among the West Indian islands. Some of the channels are a few feet wide, some thousands of feet and some miles. The widest of all, the spanning of which was the last piece of work in the completion of the section now opened, is five and a half miles across from island to island. Everything except the rock for the roadbed and embankments had to be transported from the mainland, for the keys are mostly barren and could furnish no supplies. Even water had to be brought in tanks, and the workmen had to be housed in floating dormitories over much of the distance.

In spite of these difficulties and of the obstacles of mud and water, stiff currents, jungle, rock, heat, mosquitoes and storms, the work, once begun, has been pushed steadily on without a halt until the ad is in sight. From Homestead, where the extension begins, it is seventeen miles to the coast at Water's Edge. This part of the construction is on the mainland, but it is through the strange south Floridian region of low everglades and mangrove swamps, interspersed with higher patches of rocky pine land.

From Water's Edge the road crosses Jewish creek, uniting Barnes and Blackwater sounds by a drawbridge, and after skirting Lake Surprise, where thousands of tons of filling were swallowed up in a vain attempt to run the road straight across the lake, it lands upon the middle of Key Largo, the largest of the keys. Fifteen miles bring the southern end of Largo, and there the road becomes really amphibious. Of the seventy-seven miles remaining to Knights Key more than half is built over water on cement and coral rock embankments or on concrete viaducts, supported on concrete piers anchored to the rock bottom and strengthened with piles. At the deeper channels there are drawbridges to admit the passage of vessels, and in the embankments which cross the shallower passages are twenty-five foot water openings at frequent intervals.

From Key Largo the extension crosses Tavernier creek to Plantation key, which it traverses, thence over another narrow arm called Snake creek to Windy's island, then across a wider passage to Upper Metacumbe key. The longest viaduct yet reached carries the road from Upper Metacumbe to Lower Metacumbe, whence a still longer embankment takes it over the wide channel to Long key, the next stepping stone. Then from Long key to Grassy key comes the longest leap of the whole way. Between these two there are five and one-half miles of sea, which are crossed by the famous "ocean viaduct," over which the rails are carried thirty-one feet above the main surface level of the water. From Grassy key a number of small islets and intervening passages are crossed to the larger Key Vacca, from which, by a narrow channel, the diminutive Hog key and another channel, Knights Key, is reached, where the journey by rail is ended for the present.
